

At no security risk Says defense budget could be cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's defense budget for the current fiscal year could be slashed by as much as $15 billion without endangering national security, says Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore.

"I think we should realize that the posture and weapons system requested by the Defense Department as essential to security do not carry with them any mandate from heaven," Hatfield said during debate on the defense budget Friday.

He asserted the $72 billion budget proposed by the administration will create an insecure country—due to domestic problems—rather than protect national security.

U.S. military spending has not reflected the nation's foreign policy, Hatfield said. "Without rewriting a single treaty, canceling a single commitment, or reversing a strategic objective, we could virtually eliminate as much as $15 billion from this year's defense budget and enhance our overall national security."

As Hatfield called for budget cuts, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, urged his colleagues to move quickly on the bill, which he said is a bare-bones minimum.

But the Senate gave no indication of quitting its debate on the $19.2 billion military-procurement bill, which includes money for expanding the antiballistic-missile system.

Senators opposed to ABM expansion said Friday they will attempt to limit the system to completion of sites at Malmstrom Air Base, Mont., and Grand Forks Air Base, N.D. This would deny funds for expanding the system to Whiteman Air Base, Mo., and Warren Air Base, Wyo.

The Armed Services Committee has cut $1.3 billion from the defense budget. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Friday the Appropriations Committee and the Senate should make additional cuts.

CAB to tighten charter flight regulations despite opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board is going ahead with plans to tighten charter flight regulations, despite pressure from Congress. But the CAB says it expects some changes in the tough guidelines it has proposed.

Suspension of the proposed rules pending congressional review would be most undesirable, CAB Chairman Secor D. Browne said in a letter to Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., a member of the House Commerce Committee.

Browne said action on the new rules must be made quickly to be effective for the 1971 charter season.

Complaints have come from a number of organizations too big to qualify. These include state associations of dentists, lawyers, pharmaceutical companies, dry cleaners, teachers and food dealers; college alumni groups and various civic clubs.

Moss told Browne the CAB proposals are contrary both to the board's duty to promote air transportation and to the President's recent statement on international air policy calling for equal treatment for scheduled and charter airlines.

Browne replied that the CAB is trying to deal with widespread abuses of current charter regulations.

Under the new rules, charter flight eligibility would be limited to groups of no more than 20,000 members buying no more than 2,000 airplane tickets in a calendar year.

Two injured, $2000 loss in accidents

Two persons were injured and nearly $2,000 damage caused in area traffic mishaps Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Westin, 43, Rt. 5, Marshfield, suffered cuts and bruises when her station wagon left County Trunk N about 1 1/2 miles west of Arpin at 4:40 p.m. and rolled over into a ditch.

Four-year-old Christopher Westin received facial lacerations in the accident, which caused an estimated $1,200 damage.

Mrs. Kathleen M. Dimka, 35, Port Edwards, was charged with failure to yield the right of way after her station wagon collided with an auto driven by Michael F. Tessmer, 17, 3720 7th St. S., at the intersection of W. Grand and 2nd Aves. at 4:20 p.m. Damage to the two vehicles was set at $650.

Browne said final action by the CAB will take into account the views of the traveling public and the airlines. "We would anticipate that modifications to the proposals—even substantial ones—would be made before final action."

Crash

(Continued From Page 1) demolished, according to police. Three other persons lost their lives in state traffic accidents Friday and early today, the Associated Press reported.

Kathy Clauer, 17, of Cassville was injured fatally early today when she was thrown from a car which missed a curve on Highway 81 about eight miles west of Lancaster, Grant County.

Paul Walter, 16, of rural Oshkosh died Friday of head injuries after being struck by a car while riding a bicycle on a Winnebago County road west of Neenah.

Paul Sorenson, 29, of Oconomowoc died in a two-car crash Friday at a Waukesha County intersection.

Milwaukee loses bid for air show

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The city's Mitchell Field learned Friday that Dulles International Airport, as had been forecast, is being selected by the government to get about $3 million for an international air exposition.

Milwaukee and Minneapolis were among the big bidders besides the Washington, D.C., field. Milwaukee capped its campaign earlier this month with Air Age '70, an exposition that attracted exhibitors from a score of foreign nations.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said Dulles will be the site of the "Ground-Aero-Transportation Exposition Center."

Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., said he learned the government wants to include mass transit projects in the 1972 exposition, and that Milwaukee doesn't have the facilities for that type of show.

'Lucky' Lager retires from Army service

The Army recruiter for the Wisconsin Rapids area, Sgt. 1-c Bernard "Lucky" Lager retired Friday after 20 years of military service.

He plans to attend Stevens Point State University beginning next semester to gain a teaching degree. Lager said he hopes to major in mathematics and later teach in a high school.

Sgt. Lager came to Wisconsin Rapids in 1960 as recruiter for Wood, Portage, Adams and Juneau Counties. In March 1969 he went to Vietnam for a year of service as a flight operations specialist, before returning to his recruiting duties.

"I guess I've signed up a little more than 1,100 fellows," Lager said in reflecting on his recruiting efforts.

His first military service was with the Air Force from 1948 to 1950. He joined the Army in 1952 and had tours of duty in Germany, Hawaii, and Japan. Just prior to being assigned here he served at Milwaukee for two years.

Lager said he and his family plan to continue living in Wisconsin Rapids while he attends school at Stevens Point.

Sandstrom appeal rejected

MADISON (AP) — Will Sandstrom, who has tried to make the Cosa Nostra an election-year campaign issue, was declared Friday by a Circuit Court to be ineligible for the Democratic primary for governor.

Court says state can't limit abortion reasons

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A federal court knocked down a large section of Georgia's abortion law Friday, ruling the state may not limit reasons for terminating a pregnancy.

Specifically declared unconstitutional was the section which allowed abortions only to protect the health of the mother, to prevent grave birth defects, or to prevent birth resulting from rape.

A U.S. District Court in Wisconsin has ruled state government cannot restrict a woman's right to have an abortion in the early months of pregnancy.

Both courts did uphold the state's right to set health conditions under which abortions will be performed.

Discuss problems of aged at local meeting Monday

Civic organizations and governmental agencies in this community have been invited to send representatives to a meeting in the Courthouse auditorium at 7 p.m. Monday to discuss a wide range of problems affecting the over-65 age group.

Peter Byrners, chairman of the County Board's Committee on Geriatrics, said the meeting has been called especially to get the views of civic and governmental leaders concerning the needs of senior citizens and suggestions for meeting such needs.

"I feel that the only way an overall solution to the problems of the aged can be achieved is to get all the facts possible from all the people interested in these problems," Byrners said.

Byrners is chairman of an area conference to be held here Aug. 20, preliminary to the state conference on aging scheduled this fall at Madison. Such conferences are being conducted in preparation for a national conference on aging in 1971.

Senior citizens will be invited to present their views at the Aug. 20 session here.

Student arrested for peace petition

WISCONSIN DELLS (AP) — Police have arrested a University of Wisconsin student who was circulating an antiwar petition, and are charging him with soliciting without a permit.

Police Chief Hans Mickelson declined comment on the charge, but a Madison newspaper quoted City Atty. Donald Hamm as having explained the arrest resulted from "a unique problem with crowded sidewalks."

"We have to compromise between the right of these people to petition their government and the right of the rest of the people to walk on the sidewalk," Hamm was quoted as having said.

Arrested was Joe Plazewski, a student employed for the summer in the Dells area, and a member of a group that has been circulating war protest petitions.

County workers' pay can be set by state: Warren

MADISON (AP) — The State Department of Health and Social Services has the right to establish pay scales for county welfare department employees, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren ruled Friday.

The attorney general issued his opinion after some county board supervisors said a 1969 Wisconsin law grants them power to determine salaries of welfare workers.

The law said, in part: "The county (welfare) director shall make recommendations to the county board of supervisors, who shall fix the salary of (welfare) employees."

Warren said he interpreted this to mean the county boards could regulate salaries only within guidelines issued by the state's Welfare Department.

Congress will probe Pentagon's dumping of nerve gas in Atlantic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both houses of Congress will investigate the Pentagon's plan to ship 68 tons of deadly nerve gas to the Atlantic Ocean for dumping—a plan that includes emergency measures the Defense Department says will be unnecessary.

Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., said Friday representatives of the Army and departments of State, Interior and Welfare will be invited to testify beginning Monday before the House merchant marine subcommittee on oceanography.

Rogers was followed several hours later by Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., who announced his Senate oceanography subcommittee will begin hearings on the plan next Wednesday.

Less than a week later—about Aug. 10—one train will move out from Anniston, Ala., and another from Lexington, Ky., along unannounced routes no faster than 35 miles per hour toward the coast near Southport, N.C. There, according to the plan, 15,540 gas-filled rockets encased in 418 concrete coffins wrapped in steel will be loaded aboard a barge and carted out 280 miles off the Florida coast where the vessel will be scuttled.

Hollings called the project "extremely important because of its potential threat to the safety and well-being of our citizens." He said he hopes to "find the facts and talk to the experts."

The Army says it will inform hospitals along the way to stock up on atropine, an antidote that has to be injected into a large muscle immediately after contact with the odorless, tasteless gas.

Contact with the gas can kill in less than two minutes without the atropine injection.

Last year the Pentagon backed down from a plan to ship several rail carloads of deadly World War I surplus gas from Colorado to New Jersey for dumping at sea. Public outcry generally was credited with convincing the Defense Department to destroy the gas chemically in Colorado.

Los Angeles (AP) — Showing the strain of five days on the witness stand in the Sharon Tate murder trial, Linda Kasabian has vehemently denied she is testifying only to save her own life.

"I would give my life for the people who were killed," she said.

Mrs. Kasabian, who testified that Charles Manson ordered his followers to kill Miss Tate and six others, began crying Friday under cross-examination by defense attorney Paul Fitzgerald.

It happened when he asked the state's star witness to recall a day last winter when authorities took her from jail to Miss Tate's rented mansion to pinpoint locations described in her story of the killings of the actress and six others in two nights last August.

"Some dogs came up," she said, "and I remember saying: 'Why couldn't dogs have been here that night?' And I started crying."

"Why did you cry?" Fitzgerald asked.

"Because I had seen something horrible and I was at the same spot," the witness said.

Mrs. Kasabian said under questioning that she had been promised immunity for her testimony and she realizes that this will release her from charges of seven counts of murder and one of conspiracy.

On trial with Manson, 35, are Susan "Sadie" Atkins, 21; Patricia "Katie" Krenwinkel, 22; and Leslie Van Houten, 20.

A large portion of the cross-examination dealt with Mrs. Kasabian's use of hallucinogenic drugs. She told of living in about 11 drug-oriented communes across the country since the age of 16. Her life, she said, was "just a constant moving back and forth, but always with other people."

Mrs. Kasabian's cross-examination continues when court resumes Monday.

City police are investigating three reports of theft which were filed Friday.

A $155 clarinet belonging to John McCandless, 1121 10th St. S., was stolen at Witter Field Friday afternoon, his mother told officers. The clarinet, which was in a light blue case, had been placed near a bush while John was playing with other youngsters.

Wayne Anderson, Bemidji, Minn., reported that his motorcycle helmet was taken from his cycle which was parked on 2nd Ave. S. between 11 p.m. Friday and 1 a.m. today. The helmet was valued at $25.

A $25 heater was taken from a city building located in the industrial park. A door was apparently forced open, police said, probably Thursday night or early Friday morning.
