Tri-City Residents Have Paintings at Rural Art Exhibit

Three Tri-City residents were among the 75 exhibitors at the sixth annual Rural Art exhibit in Madison this week. The Rev. George C. Westphal of Wisconsin Rapids, Mrs. S. Brooks of Nekoosa and Mrs. William Schalla of Biron.

CHECKING A GUN—Sgt. Robert P. Zeman, 22, an armament technician, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Peterson, 1536 Oak street, is pictured checking a B-17 Flying Fortress 50 calibre machine gun between eighth air force aerial assaults on Nazi military and industrial centers. A member of the 34th bombardment group and the Third air division, he graduated from Lincoln High school in 1941. He was employed as a spot welder by the Prentiss Wabers products company before entering the army air forces in January, 1943.

Lincoln High-Lights

BY SUSAN SEVERANCE Result of the debate at Wausau last Friday was five out of six debates won by the Rapids. This qualifies the Rapids for participation in debates at Madison in the near future.

The regular Wednesday assembly was a patriotic program in celebration of Lincoln and Washington's birthdays. Donna Norman gave a review of Lincoln's life and Phyllis Peterson gave a review of Washington's life. The Boy Scouts demonstrated how the flag should be displayed at various times. A group of 12 girls sang several patriotic selections.

One of the main assemblies of the year took place Thursday afternoon when Chief Evergreen Tree, a Cochiti Pueblo Indian visited our school. He gave imitations of birds and animals that were very real. He came directly from Staid Rock Indian Ceremonial at Wisconsin Dells.

BY RITA KING The Junior High, seventh and eighth grades, showed their true colors Tuesday in a really peppy pep meeting in preparation for the Rapids-Merrill game that night. With the help of the student council, they must have instilled into the team, a winning vigor, for the Rapids played a fighting game and came out on top, 29-27. We are all hoping our winning team will score another victory against Marshfield tonight.

BY STEVE HILL Duane Smith Duane, the son of Superintendent Floyd Smith, is one of the most musically minded people in the town. Although he has written no symphonies, and cannot play 15 different instruments, he has a very useful knowledge of the subject. He has long been affiliated with the Boys Glee club and the school choir, and, when asked to, he can pound out boogie-woogie on the keyboard which compares favorably with the best.

He excels along a dramatic line, too, having attained membership in the National Thespian, an unusually high honor. He is one of the few second year chemistry students who took the test given by Westinghouse in their quest to find future scientists. If anyone were to select the five best dressed boys in Lincoln High, it is almost certain that Duane would appear high upon the list, since he has been a leader in high school fashions for the past few years.

He was one of the seniors selected to belong to the Youth-Rotar movement, a good indication of his schooling. Among other things, he was a member of the Prom committee in his junior year, and he has gone out for various sports activities of the school from time to time.

Plows Work Overtime Nekoosa Trapper Demonstrates How To Skin Beaver

Snow plows and graders worked overtime last night and today in an effort to clear the roadways, following one of the heaviest snowfalls of the season in the past 24 hours.

Although the main roads are open in the county today, many of the side roads and streets are still almost impassable because of the drifts which resulted from high winds during the night.

The snowfall in Wisconsin Rapids measured four inches, starting slightly before noon Wednesday and continuing until early this morning. The Associated Press reported that southeastern Wisconsin glittered under a coating of sleet today while the rest of the state recorded a heavy snowfall and federal weather observers promised snow flurries, colder weather and high winds by night.

Many schools and county and town roads in the northern part of the state were closed due to the heavy snow. At Schofield, an accumulation of heavy snow caused the collapse of a large grading shed at the Roddis Lumber company. The roof caved in and sides of the 193-foot building collapsed. No one was in the structure but the collapse caused a shutdown of the mill.

Highway department officials in several northern counties said that conditions might be worse by tomorrow as a high wind was whipping the snow into drifts faster than they could break through. Most of the main roads were open but side roads were closed in several counties.

Traffic in the southern lake counties skidded dangerously and elsewhere was slowed by snow up to 7 inches deep. The temperature hung generally in the 20's.

Seven inches of snow was recorded at Wausau, six at Green Bay and Madison and five at La Crosse.

Up The Street —And Back

If Postmaster Joe Wheeler wondered why his Chicago paper was late in coming last Wednesday, the Tribune has the answer. The paper, addressed to Mr. Wheeler in care of the local postoffice was delivered to the Tribune Wednesday morning.

It seems as though every time there's a snowstorm that it's a signal for robins to appear.

The latest one was reported during the big blaw on Wednesday by W. Meade Reeves. He also stated that Wisconsin Rapids has a year round robin which lives near the Green Bay and Western roundhouse. Defiant of the winter weather, this bird presents a rough appearance in his outer cloak of dust and soot.

A number of former Pittsfield residents who have migrated to California recently attended a Wisconsin picnic at Los Angeles. Former residents there were Eric Getzlar, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hoover and two daughters, Mrs. Ed. Ward Langhoff and a cousin, Elliot Eisenberg, Mrs. E. Stein and daughter Yvonne and Mrs. Elmer Wundt and daughter Lola Mae. It was reported the weather was so hot that day that the former Pittsfield people were extremely uncomfortable. It might be, if this cold weather keeps on, the whole community may move out to California.

A notice appearing in this week's Lincoln Highlights to the effect that the students were entertained by Chief Evergreen Tree brings to mind the days when the whole family piled into the car on the spur of the moment to attend the famed Indian Ceremonial at Wisconsin Dells. It didn't need to be any novelty to travel 50 or 80 miles for such an evening's entertainment, but that's a long way to walk now-a-days.

Indian Presents Kiwanis Program

Imitations of bird and animal calls by Chief Evergreen Tree and the showing of a film "The Kind of a World We Want to Live in" in observance of World Brotherhood week comprised the program at the regular weekly meeting of the Kiwanis club at Hotel Witter today.

The Indian chief who is visiting public schools here today and giving his bird and animal calls in conjunction with a conservation program imitated the blue jay, the crow and mocking bird and lighting dogs after he had spoken briefly on the first meeting of the white man and the Indian. The program was presented by A. W. Zellmer, who explained that the program originally planned, a talk on George Washington by the Rev. James Madison Johnson, had been cancelled because of Father Johnson's illness.

Student Breaks Leg In School Gym Class

Funeral services will be at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Krohn and Bernard funeral home with the Rev. C. A. O'Neill of Nekoosa officiating. Interment will be in Forest Hill cemetery.

Damage Negligible In Two Minor Fires

Fire in the motor of a car at the Ernest Krohnholm residence, 710 Eleventh street north, did about $15 damage at 3:15 Monday evening, according to a police report.

A fire call was also turned in from the James LaVigne hardware store, 141 Fourth avenue north, at 10:30 Monday night. Flames responded to the call and found the store full of smoke as the result of a plugged chimney over stove. Some of the stove was pulled out and no damage, other than that caused by smoke, was done.

New Consolidated Employes To be Housed in Old Hotel

In order to provide quarters for employes who live too far away from the city to return to their homes, the Consolidated Water Power & Paper company is renovating the old Commercial hotel on First avenue south for occupancy of newly arriving workers. Goodland Cites Wisconsin Red Cross Workers

Madison—(AP)—More than 6,133,227 volunteer hours of service were registered by Wisconsin Red Cross workers through the state's 87 chapters in 1944, Governor Goodland reported today.

"The 920,612 members are doing a real job for the state and the nation by their unselfish contributions of time and money," Goodland said, and added he particularly was proud of Junior Red Cross achievements.

The chief executive cited the accomplishments of the senior organization, which included securing 138,435 pints of blood for conversion into plasma, production of 22,284,180 surgical dressings for the medical corps, and rendered to 74,200 servicemen, veterans and their families by field workers, and the recruiting of 325 registered nurses for active duty.

New Consolidated Employes To be Housed in Old Hotel

In order to provide quarters for employes who live too far away from the city to return to their homes, the Consolidated Water Power & Paper company is renovating the old Commercial hotel on First avenue south for occupancy of newly arriving workers. A crew from the construction department of the company has already started to put the building in order.

Consolidated is now employing a considerable number of farmers and farm helpers who will return to farm work early in the spring. This, it was explained at the company offices, will considerably reduce the working force. It has been necessary to recruit workers from greater distances to fill the vacancies to be caused by the return of those who have been working at the mill during the winter months when outdoor activity on farms ceased.

OBSEVE SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY
