Donald Larson Dies While in Naval Service

Donald Wayne Larson, 18, seaman first class, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Birger Larson, 611 Clyde avenue, died Monday as a result of extreme multiple injuries suffered in the service of his country, according to a message received this morning by his parents. No other details of his death were given.

The parents last heard from their son in the Philippines where he was stationed at a staff hospital. They expected him to return to this country and be discharged within a few months. The youth, who attended Lincoln High school, enlisted in the navy about a year and a half ago and had been overseas since last October.

Resides the parents, survivors include three brothers, Kenneth, Roger and Gerald, all at home.
