Frankfurt, Germany.—(AP)—General Eisenhower in a report released here today, criticized the French government for hampering the Allied Control Council and urged early establishment of central German administrative machinery.

Summarizing the situation in Germany in October, before he left to become chief of staff of the U. S. army, Eisenhower cited the "potential dangers of unrest and disease this winter."

He declared, however, there was "no immediate emergency in the American and British zones as long as current rations can be maintained."

Follows Price Report

The release followed by a day the White House disclosure of a report to President Truman by Byron Price, former censorship director, blaming France for most of the occupation difficulties.

Praising the British delegation for going along in council matters for the sake of unanimity, Eisenhower asserted:

"There was no similar solution of the deadlock which prevents establishment of the central German administrative machinery provided for by the Potsdam agreement as necessary for the treatment of Germany as a single economic unit. French authorities in October maintained their opposition to this principle. Only in November were there indications of progress."

"On a number of other important matters, moreover, little progress was made during the month. A proposed law to authorize and encourage a federation of German trade unions on a national basis could not be adopted on account of French opposition."

Revivals Encouraged

"It is important to note that the revival of German agriculture, industry and trade which is being encouraged by the military government and the organization of German administrative machinery to take responsibility for the program," he said, "are necessary to avoid expense to the American treasury."

While restlessness has been noticed, Eisenhower said that "there is no indication of any organized resistance and the number of crimes of violence is, in the aggregate, very small."

He warned, however, that the influx of refugees and returning prisoners of war was boosting the population of the American zone to close to 20,000,000 and "carries with it potential dangers of unrest and disease."

Eisenhower said the United States still was providing refuge in Germany for more than 80,000 Estonians, Lithuanians and Latvians despite Russian demands that they be turned over as Soviet citizens. Another headache are Ukrainians of doubtful citizenship.

The individuals themselves claim not to be Soviet citizens and therefore not subject to repatriation un-

ANTHONY MARTIN

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Martin, Route 3, Wisconsin Rapids, have received word from the war department that their son, Sgt. Anthony B. Martin, was killed in action near Frankfurt-on-Main, Germany, November 21, 1944. Sergeant Martin had previously been listed as missing in action since that date.

Sergeant Martin was born January 1, 1920, at LaSalle, Ill. When he was three years old, his family moved to Wisconsin Rapids. He was graduated from John Edwards High school, Port Edwards, where he won a scholarship to the University of Wisconsin. It was while he was attending the university that he entered military service January 27, 1943.

He received training at Fort Sheridan, Ill., Camp McCain, Miss., Biloxi, Miss., Jefferson Barracks, Mo., Las Vegas, Nev., and camps in Florida and Georgia before going overseas in October, 1944, to an Eighth air force station in England. A tail gunner on a Flying Fortress, he was declared missing in action November 21, 1944, according to See—MARTIN—Page 11

Nuernberg.—(AP)—Ghastly scenes of Nazi concentration camps were shown in motion pictures today to the international military tribunal but some of the Hitlerite leaders on trial sat with averted eyes during the showing of the grim film record of German cruelty.

The grisly pictures of mass murder sobered Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering and others of the score of defendants who had grinned and laughed earlier as an American prosecutor disclosed the threats, bluffs and deceit with which Hitler softened up Austria for an unopposed invasion.

The court adjourned for the day at 4:45 p. m. (9:45 a. m. CST) after the motion picture was entered as evidence.

Fat and not-too-happy Hermann Goering was described as the man who directed by telephone the blitz invasion of Austria after Austrian Nazis paved the way by deposing Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg.

Goering became serious as Assistant U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman read in detail transcripts of telephone conversations between Goering and Austrian Nazis on the days before and on the days of the unopposed invasion.

Found in Ruins
The records were found in the ruins of the Berlin air ministry building by Associated Press Correspondent Dan-De Luce and given to the prosecution for evidence.

"This highly interesting document allows us to live again in those grim days of Anschluss," Alderman declared.

Many of the telephone conversations were with Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Austrian Nazi leader and one of Goering's fellow defendants. The prosecution said the records clearly disclosed Nazi plotting to absorb Austria into the Reich.

The reichsmarshal laughed and most of the other top Nazis in the prisoners' box seemed amused as the prosecution read off in Goering's words the threats, bluffs, cajoleries and lies that resulted in the downfall of Austria.

Shows Discrepancies

The prosecutor pointed out to the court the cynical discrepancies and "international double talk" between Goering's open threats to the Austrian government and his telephoned statement the day after the Anschluss to Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, who at the time was in London, that "this story we had given an ultimatum is just foolish gossip."

The last statement was for the benefit of English agents tapping the telephone wire, Alderman said.

Goering himself almost doubled up with laughter when Alderman quoted him as telling Ribbentrop
