

Mary Neuman Becomes Bride of H.A. Moen

At an 8 o'clock nuptial high mass at St. Michael's Catholic church, Hewitt, on Monday, January 19, Mary Neuman became the bride of Henry A. Moen, son of Halvor Moen, Route 5, Marshfield. The Rev. Augustine Borkowski read the ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Neuman, Route 2, Arpin, wore a long white satin gown fashioned with a lace yoke, and a finger-ring veil falling from a seed pearl tiara, complementing her costume with a string of pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white roses and carnations.

Mrs. Regina Rohrer of Chicago attended her sister with Mrs. Magnus Moen of Marshfield. They wore aqua and rose floor length taffeta gowns and wrist corsages of roses and carnations.

Magnus Moen, brother of the groom, and the bride's brother, Joseph Neuman of Appleton were the groom's attendants.

Following the ceremony 40 relatives gathered at the home of the bride's parents, where the wedding dinner and supper were served, a large wedding cake serving as the table centerpiece.

Mr. Moen was re-called to the army and left on January 22 for Fort Sheridan, Ill. Mrs. Moen will live with her parents.

H.M.S. Pinafore to 'Sail' Next Week from Lincoln High Pier

"H. M. S. Pinafore" will sail again. This time the classic comic opera of Gilbert and Sullivan, the rough English satirists whose works have never paled, will have scores of Lincoln high school students in the cast and chorus of the piece to be given at the field house Tuesday and Wednesday nights, January 27 and 28. Curtain time will be 8 o'clock.

Nearly every department in the high school has contributed to the production of "Pinafore"—a cooperation which the directors, Miss Dorothy Nommensen and Hollis Newman, credit with the successful outcome of the ambitious preparations for the performance.

The whimsy and humor of the action—the scene is laid on the quarterdeck of H. M. S. Pinafore off Portsmouth—will be portrayed in the lead roles by a cast of ten. John Muehlstein and Donald Peterson are the Lt. Honorable Sir Joseph Porter and Captain Corcoran of the opera. Jean Bachtel and Rosella Bachtel will play the role of Josephine, the captain's daughter, Miss Bachtel appearing in Tuesday's performance and Miss Bartz on Wednesday.

Kenneth Baldwin as Ralph Rackstraw, Ruth Fleming as Cousin Hebe, Doris Koss in the role of Little Buttercup, Reuben Timm as Dick Deadeye, Robert Pfeiffer, the boatswain, and Charles Zimmerman, the carpenter, complete the principals.

"Pinafore" dozen or more chorus numbers, presented with a varied combination of lead characters as soloists, will be taken by the chorus groups made up of high school choral club members.

Sailors are Victor Baldwin, Alfred Berard, Ronald Bramble, El-don Cleveland, Bob Ebsen, Laird Ehler, Dick Gazely, Jack Gibson, Walter Hamelneck, Malcolm Hein, Russell Hultquist, Roger Janz, Dick Kirschling, Roland Kivens, Kenneth Kruger, Richard Kubisiak, Kenneth Kruger, Walter Mackaben, Walter Mayer, Bill Middlecamp, Bob Nash, Jim Nelson, Carl Pusch, banow, David Rowland, Billy Rubch, Clemence Santoski, Jim Schuetz, Arvin Schluter, Paul Smith, Clarence Trudell, Wayne Vadnais, William Weller, and Leon Yaeger.

Production details were in charge of the following: Orchestra, Joseph Liska, jr.; stage design and backdrop, B. Erid Schultz, assisted by advanced art class; makeup, Rom-in Greene and speech class for the principals, Elizabeth Schweinerm and Luff for the chorus; chorus guides, Lulu Moll and Edgar Bird; costumes, ticket sales and publicity, Choir Mothers; prompter, Lillian Anderson; properties, Wayne Vadnais and Carl Polansky; programs, Harold Paulson and printing class; posters, elementary art class; dance coaches, Gwen Cobleigh, Mad-dy Hope and Edgar Bird. Costumes of the principals were supplied by the Tracy Music Library of Boston.

Miss Nommensen will be the orchestra accompanist. In the string section will be Mr. Liska, Robert Speltz, Robert Gales, Andrew Steiner, John Kuenn, Charles Henke, Dean Plzak, William Schreiner, Madelyn Fahrner, Marion Clapp and Bernard Goggins; winds, Roger Hornig, band director, Richard Hagen, William Manske, Kenneth Bur-meister, Joyce Marcoux, John Corey, James Marks, Kathryn Semrow, Robert Herman, Evelyn Kohnen and Myrtle Timm; percussion, Dana Norman and Richard Babcock.

Advanced art class students who worked on the setting for the production are Henry Acott, Ralph Johnson, Mauritz Krouhnik, Wallace Marx and Stanley Malesk. The backdrop was painted by Irene Bocaner. Avril Johnson, Betty White, Ralph Johnson and Rita Villeneuve.

The backdrop for "Pinafore" represented one of the difficult problems of production. Seventy-two square yards of muslin were used for the property which cost $35. To purchase the backdrop would have cost $150 and a rental charge of $50 was asked. The school, hence, has a permanent property by creating its own at a substantial saving.

Study sessions each week this month to prepare a program for Girl Scouts that will meet the needs of today. There is no better way to serve our country than to meet girls in a constructive educational and recreational program that will prepare them for the responsibility they are sure to meet in the years to come.

On Thursday afternoon, January 22, committee from the Girl Scout Council of Wisconsin (Rapids, Stevens Point and Marshfield) met in the office to prepare an all-day program for adults of the three cities. This defense day will include both a morning and afternoon session, with outside speakers and will be one of many to be held in the Great Lakes Region during the month of February, under the direction of the National Organization of Girl Scouts Inc. Detailed plans will be announced soon.

Tuesday evening, February 3, Girl Scout leaders of the Wisconsin Rapids Area will meet in a program activity session in the Wood County Normal gymnasium. Mrs. S. A. Tate, chairman of the leaders association, will preside.

The first week in February Girl Scout candy will be offered for sale by Girl Scouts in their annual candy sale. The proceeds go towards the maintenance of Camp Sacajawea. Mrs. Bernard Boles and Mrs. R. Vogt are in charge of the sale. Orders will be taken for the candy as soon as it is delivered at the Girl Scout office. The candy will be a chocolate nut mixture made by the official candy makers for the Girl Scouts. Anyone wishing to purchase the candy may call the Girl Scout office, 1274, and Scouts will deliver.

Lincoln High-Lites

Due to bad skiing and skating weather, the high school hockey team and the Lincoln Ski club have been hampered in their activities. These two organizations have been very active in past years and we hope for snow and cold weather next week so they can get busy.

Assembly Program
On Thursday morning the students of Lincoln high were treated to a new and different program when Mrs. Rowland Cross, introduced by the Rev. Robert W. Kingdon, gave a talk on Chinese youth and their future. Mrs. Cross spent 25 years teaching music in China and doing missionary work among the Chinese people.

Mrs. Cross said the Chinese young people are studying hard for the day when they will lead China after the present war. Literacy in China has been greatly reduced, she said, since in 1919 Dr. Hu Shih, present Chinese ambassador to the United States, reduced the 40,000 ideographs of the classical Chinese language to 1,000, with the help of U. S. trained students. This has made it easier for the peasants to learn to read and write their own language.

The speaker said that most of the schools have moved from occupied China to unoccupied regions where they carry on their classes as usual. The Chinese government urges that these schools keep open, for trained people will be needed after the war. The only universit, left in occupied China is Yen Ching, which since Mrs. Cross returned may now above the run of fiction. Her ability to make her characters vividly real and unforgettable testifies to the steady growth of her skill, and makes Angels Fell one of the most satisfying novels of the year.

Will Rogers: His Wife's Story by Betty Rogers—The entertaining life story of her famous husband—who, despite his fame was an unassuming, unpretentious man—told in simple straightforward style. She makes no attempt to glorify him, but presents a warmhearted and straightforward portrait with no touch of sentimentality.

Latin America by William Schurz—A mature, unburied book, the result of thirty years of travel, observation and study, and the first complete and unified picture of all the twenty countries of Latin America.

America's Nutrition Primer by Eleanor Sense—The book answers the question "What to eat and why." With nutrition now a subject of national discussion it is time to translate scientific facts into a book which is usable and readable.

American Glass by George & Helen McKearin—A comprehensive book on glass and glass makers in America by what are probably the foremost authorities in the country. A detailed history and a clear account of the methods, mixtures, patterns, decorations, colors, etc.

Barometer Rising by Hugh MacLennan—Against the background of historic drama is told the love story of Penelope Main, daughter of an old Nova Scotia family, and of Neil Macrae, who fought gallantly in France but who returned under suspicion.

Arms and the Girl by Marguerite Marshall—Lt. Rosemary Alden, nurse, was proud to do her small part in her country's defense, and she would have been completely happy if her childhood sweetheart, Philip Shibley, had felt as she did. But, meanwhile, Captain Jerry Lee was exceedingly charming. And then Philip joined the army and matters became more complicated than ever, for he was a private and Rosemary an officer; and the strict army regulations, a new barrier.

Angels Fell by Anne Miller Downes—Her thorough understanding of every-day people, and of the sometimes obscure forces that drive them, gives Anne Downes' novels a significance that raises them far

Girl Scout Corner

Girl Scout leaders and committee members are very busy these days trying to help the Red Cross, and understand one another in all the many things there are to do. Perhaps the most important thing has been the dozen of diapers the girls hemmed to become a part of the layettes which were shipped this week to suffering Europe. When the call came for soap every Girl Scout did her bit by bringing one bar of guest ivory to add to the bundles that babies in some far off country will receive.

If you have any books suitable for libraries in the army camps and have no way to get them to the public library call 1518 and Mrs. H. C. Cleveland will contact a Girl Scout who will call for your books and deliver them to the library. As soon as the organization for salvage is complete Girl Scouts will call for your waste rags under the direction of Mrs. Elmer Zaeske and Mrs. Ernest Belter. These rags must be wrapped or sealed in cartons as a health and safety measure and will be delivered to designated storage places. Girl Scouts are collecting new razor blades to be sent to war relief quarters for the soldiers in Europe who have difficulty in obtaining them. Anyone wishing to assist the Girl Scouts in this may call the Girl Scout office, 1274.

All intermediate Girl Scouts will soon be launched in the First Aid badge, which will be their major effort during February and early March. Volunteer nurses and Red Cross examiners will assist in this part of the program. Brownies will also learn how to help each other and other people in time of need. Troop 20 under the leadership of Mrs. H. W. Rowe, met with Rita King on Wednesday evening of this week. Miss Gwen Cobleigh presented artificial respiration as one of the required tests in the badge. Their committee leader for the coming activities will be Susan Severance, their scribe Lanice Koukalek, and the new treasurer Kathleen Roets.

Girl Scout leaders have accepted their jobs as part of the defense program and as such have met in
