WITH MILITARY HONORS.

Remains of Two Soldiers Buried for the Second Time.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 5.--(Special.)

--The bodies of John Van Breda and Fred Riddle, soldiers who died in Porto Rico, were buried for the second time this afternoon, with fitting military honors. A double funeral was held at the Fountain street Baptist church, which was crowded with local volunteers and members of the G. A. R., and they escorted the remains to the cemetery where a bugle was blown and a volley fired over the graves. Riddle's wife is employed as a domestic in Fort Wayne, Detroit, and was unable to be present on account of illness.
