

did remedy for coughs, sudden colds, influenza, croup, and all throat complaints, but it is the consumptive's great relief. When they are so far gone that no medicine will ever cure them, Coe's Cough Balsam will be found an invaluable friend to allay the coughing, help the expectoration, and ease the sufferer. Why will ye that are suffering from coughs, colds, croup, sore throat, hoarseness—and that are liable to pulmonary attacks, not take our advice, and provide yourself with a supply of Coe's Cough Balsam—the best and cheapest Cough Balsam in the world. It costs but forty cents, and can be found upon the counters of druggists everywhere.

Obituary.

A Tribute to the memory of CHAUNCEY BARKER, a true friend, a dutiful son, an affectionate brother, and at last a patriot, a hero and a martyr for his struggling country. He died in hope of an eternal life, Oct. 6, 1864, in the Lovel Hospital, Ward B, at Portsmouth Grove, R. I., aged 26. He had many warm friends and relatives in N. Y., his native State, and in Wisconsin, his adopted State, in which he has an aged Mother and two brothers, besides numerous friends to mourn his loss. He enlisted at Grand Rapids, Wood Co., in Co. G, 7th Reg't Wis. Vol., Dec. 31st, 1863. He served under Gen. Grant in all of the hard and bloody battles till the army reached Petersburg, and was there in the first charge made upon that strong place, without receiving a scar. Then was taken sick and was removed to Portsmouth Grove, R. I.—True to the last in the hour of need; patient in sickness, peaceful and hopeful to the last, and ready for the messenger of death. A grateful country will not forget thy name.—His afflicted relatives have the sympathy of all the well-wishers for their country. But what must be the feelings of all traitors, when they look over their bloody list and think that they have slain such friends? The day is not far distant when shame will be won then, and then the spirits of the true will look down and smile to think they died in vain in Freedom's cause, and for Freedom's rights. That sacred, holy, precious and true, and inalienable right has been won, and the blood of our brave soldiers has been shed in vain. The day is not far distant when the spirits of the true will look down and smile to think they died in vain in Freedom's cause, and for Freedom's rights. That sacred, holy, precious and true, and inalienable right has been won, and the blood of our brave soldiers has been shed in vain.
