becoming more apparent that the immediate future world depends chiefly on ration among the big three—America, Russia and Britain. Essence of this fact was emphasized by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in his report to the House of Commons on the conference at Moscow, stressing the good-will and confidence established, he said: "Truth must be faced that it is the part of these three powers principally that will lie the responsibility for insuring that this world followed by lasting peace. We could agree together there is a point that is not capable of solution. If they do not agree, there is no international which could not become an international problem."

is so because, to put it bluntly, these three powers represent all-round strength which is able of enforcing their will. Their geographical position and their resources make them retain. This may change in the course of time, but that's the way it is now. It seems like exaggeration, but check the global situation before this war the great powers of Europe were Russia, Britain and America.

IVAN SADOWSKA IS REPORTED AS DEAD

Army Unable to Locate Local Boy Missing Since Nov. 8, 1942

A letter from the adjutant general's department informed Mr. and Mrs. Gus Sadowska of 1806 E. Fourth street today that their son, Pvt. Ivan G. Sadowska, reported missing in action since Nov. 8, 1942, has not been found and must be presumed dead.

"It is my distressing duty to inform you," the letter said, "that all possible efforts have failed to locate your son, Pvt. Ivan G. Sadowska, who was reported missing in action Nov. 8, 1942.

"He was aboard a vessel which was sunk in the action incident to the landing of our forces on the northern coast of Africa."

The letter added that after the circumstances had been carefully reviewed and considered "an official finding of death has been made."

The youth's father, former Wood County Sheriff and now a deputy sheriff and special officer on the Marshfield police force, said today that he had not given up all hope that his son would return, in spite of the apparent finality of the report.

Pvt. Sadowska, if alive, would be 24 on Nov. 24 of this year. He was a member of an armored force unit of the Army, and had been employed at the Weinbranner shoe factory here prior to his induction.

ported to have clashed with groups protesting the arrest of the high Lebanese officials.

The government was described as most anxious to quell any trouble that might spread elsewhere in the Middle East where feeling was reported running high against the French.

Gen. Georges Catroux, Commissioner of State of the French National Committee, who has been given full powers to attain a settlement of the crisis, was reported to have conferred with committee members in Algiers this morning before proceeding to Beirut on his assignment.

Will Meet Premier

Cairo dispatches said Catroux would call on Nahas Pasha, Egyptian Premier, on his way to Beirut and was expected to bring Gen. Charles de Gaulle's reply to the Premier's protest over abrupt French action in Lebanon where the population is more than half Arab.

Lebanon, under French mandate along with Syria since after the World War, was promised her independence in 1941 when the British and Fighting French moved in to expel the Vichy French—who were accused of bowing to German plots to occupy the country.

The arrest of the high officials at Beirut by the French apparently developed from Lebanese impatience to implement the pledge of independence.
