SISTER OF HERO WILL SPONSOR NAVY VESSEL

San Pedro, Calif. — (AP) — Miss Helen Irene Tills, route 5, Marshfield, Wis., has been designated by the Secretary of the Navy as sponsor for the U. S. S. Tills, destroyer escort vessel, which will be launched here tomorrow.

The ship has been named in honor of Miss Tills' brother, the late Ensign Robert George Tills who was killed during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Ensign Tills was appointed an aviation cadet in August, 1939, and was commissioned an ensign on Sept. 19, 1939. He has been awarded the Purple Heart posthumously.

He cut five cords of pulpwood in a 20-hour day. A cord consists of 80 to 70 sticks measuring about eight inches in diameter. Streeter cut 309 of these sticks in a day.
Ernie Priest, Streeter's employer, has never heard of a better mark in the pulpwood trade.

Priest is willing to go farther and watch Streeter and the rest of his crew of cutters against any similar group in the Lake States.
He already entered them in the Chippewa County pulpwood contest.

There's Emil Nevanen of Soo, Mich., who cut 290 sticks in a day, and others who have stacked 250, 234 and 239 sticks before cutting time.

Priest challenges not only the pulpwood camps but also those engaged in the production of logs for veneer and lumber and all other types of forest products.

Plays Lone Hand
A pulpwood cutter plays a hand. He is assigned to a ed section, usually spruce or pine in this territory, and goes to work on it. He tells the type, cuts off the limbs, then saws it into eight-foot sections and completes the task by piling the sticks on a rick.

Cutting off the limb is the time-consuming part of the job. When he gets around to cutting the log he uses an old-fashioned buck-saw. For his backbreaking labors, the pulpwood cutter is paid on a piece-work basis—seven cents per stick.

While most of the woodcutters have been working at their trade since they were big enough to swing an axe, there are some who have found it a lucrative part-time occupation. Among these is 16-year-old George Rupp, a schoolboy from Erimley, Mich., who has managed to cut well over 100 sticks each day he works.

There's an acute shortage of help in the pulpwood camps and efforts are being made to interest farmers in working there during their slack winter season.
