

RAF In Concentrated Attack on Stuttgart

NAZI AIRFORCE RETALIATES IN RAID ON LONDON

London—(AP)—The RAF paid its eighth night visit of March to Germany last night, pounding the important industrial and communications center of Stuttgart in southwest Germany in a strong attack from which 11 bombers did not return, it was announced officially today.

A strong formation of allied planes was heard flying high across the English channel toward France today and vapor trails looped about the sky between Calais and Boulogne, as if dogfighters were in progress.

Indicates Large Force
The loss of 11 bombers indicated that a sizeable force took part in the assault. A large part of Stuttgart's population of a half-million is employed in precision engineering which is vital to Germany's war effort in the air and on the ground.

Only a few hours after the British bombers streamed back across the English channel, German raiders in a sunrise attack soared over London's suburbs, dropping bombs in at least one area and machine-gunning trains and other targets.

Two waves of raiders—12 planes in each—flew up the Thames estuary and five planes sped over a London suburb, firing cannon and machine-guns and spilling their bombs.

Five of the German planes were reported shot down.
Death Toll 12
By afternoon the death roll in the greater London area had reached 12.
At least six persons were killed when the German raiders bombed and machine-gunned a shopping district in outer London.

In addition to the bomber attack on Stuttgart, the air ministry said allied fighters on intruder patrols roved over Holland and Brittany. Two of the aircraft were missing.

The Berlin radio announcer called the assault upon Stuttgart a "terror" attack—a term customarily applied to a heavyweight raid in which a large area is blanketed with fire and explosions.

Northeast England Hit
During the night German bombers attacked targets in northeast England and four enemy planes were reported shot down. DNB, in a broadcast said Newcastle had been bombed.

Early this afternoon five raiders flew low over a southeast coast town and looted bombs which damaged shops and other private property. There was a number of casualties.

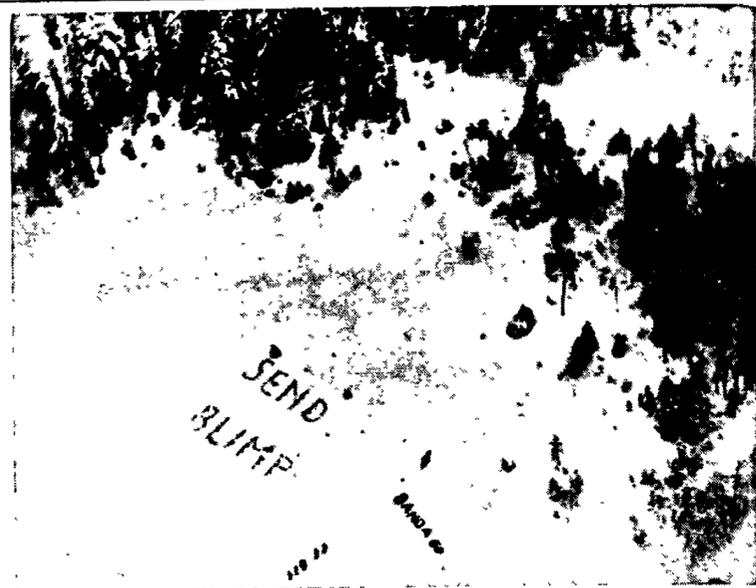

Washington—(AP)—Super 1,000-plane raids on Germany and occupied Europe will be stepped up "when we get the planes," says Air Commodore H. N. Thornton, British air attaché, because "the bigger the raid the smaller the percentage of casualties."

Supplementing the report made to the house of commons showing the RAF had wrecked 2,000 German war factories and driven more than a million Germans from ruined homes, Thornton told a press conference yesterday that British industry now is producing all the planes it can, although it has not reached peak capacity.

Casualties Less in Big Raids
Thornton said casualties are less on the big concentrated raids due to "saturation of the defenses." As an example, he said on one of the 1,000 plane raids over Europe last year the casualty rate was 3.5 per cent compared with 7 per cent in ten smaller previous raids on the same target.

Thornton said 1,160,000 Germans had been made homeless by RAF raids on 30 "key towns" in Germany last year.

Fear Rivalry Among Exile Governments
Washington—(AP)—Activities of a "Free Poland" group in Moscow aroused anxiety in Polish circles and diplomatic concern in other quarters today for fear competing governments-in-exile might spring up, under opposing sponsorship within the united nations.

HEADS PLANNING BOARD—Frederic A. Delano (above), President Roosevelt's uncle, is chairman of the national resources planning board, whose post-war plan for America was sent to congress by the president.

TELLS CONGRESS POST-WAR DUTY

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today that it is squarely up to congress whether the nation would have a great post-war delay in providing jobs for men leaving the armed services and war industries.

The chief executive, talking at his press conference, did not go into any of the broad recommendations for post-war programs drawn up by the national resources planning board and submitted to congress Wednesday.

But he did say, in response to questions, that the burden and responsibility for continued planning rests entirely in congress—nowhere else.

House Refuses Funds
The house has refused to vote funds for continuing the work of the planning board, but the senate has taken no final action on the issue.

Mr. Roosevelt said the board has listed about $7,000,000,000 worth of public works to take up unemployment which would affect a great many people upon demobilization and closing of war plants.

It is all very well for congress to pass legislation, he asserted, but you don't start human beings to work on a project by passing an appropriation.

You have to have engineering and specifications completed beforehand, he remarked.

Pre-War Time Bill Approved by Assembly

Madison, Wis.—(AP)—The assembly passed a bill today which, in effect, would put Wisconsin back on central standard time.

After suspending its rules the house voted 67 to 21 to adopt mountain war time for the state. The clocks in that zone now run one hour behind those in Wisconsin.

Wisconsin citizens, complying with a federal executive order which was sustained by former Governor Julius P. Heil, moved their clocks ahead one hour last February to achieve the shift from central standard to central war time.

Objections, originating primarily in agricultural areas, prompted Assemblymen Hammergren of Cochrane, Nicol of Sparta and Brom of Dodge, all Republicans, to introduce the bill. It was supported today by Assemblyman Ora Rice, of Delavan, chairman of the assembly agriculture committee, who said:

"To have agriculture produce the utmost we must give it the means to effect that end. Daylight saving time is valued by industrial centers because it provides for recreation, but we now are in the greatest war in history and will have to forget our recreation."

The bill now goes to the senate for concurrence.

SORGO NOT NATIVE
Like the other sugar crops (beet and cane), sorgo is not native to the New World. It was first introduced about 100 years ago.
