HOW MUSSOLINI'S DOWNFALL COULD AFFECT WAR — If Mussolini's ouster is a prelude to Italian surrender, this well might be the way the European war would go. Elimination of the Italian armies would ease the way for allied invasions (black arrows) of southern France, Italy itself and the Balkans. Italian divisions (open arrows) already have been ordered home from France and the Balkans. Allied air bases in northern Italy would place in easier reach (circles) eastern Germany and the Nazi lines of communication to the Russian front.

Hitler May Make a Withdrawal On All Fronts to Limited Boundaries

BY DE WITT MAC KENZIE
Italy's dismal predicament and its far-reaching moral effect are likely to make the way of transgressor Hitler exceeding hard in the not distant future.

The way things now are developing it wouldn't be surprising to see the Nazi chief attempt the major operation of making a sweeping withdrawal on all fronts to restricted boundaries which he would try to defend against the allies. Strengthened by this consolidation he would battle for a stalemate, hoping not only to save the Reich but salvage some of his ill-got gains.

Must Clean Up in Italy
The length of time which must elapse before the all highest undertakes such a last-stand move obviously depends on how hard the allies are able to push him. That in turn hinges on the speed with which the Anglo-American brotherhood is able to clean up the Italian situation and strike elsewhere.

In yesterday's column I pointed out the great threat which would be created to the present German battle-line in Russia if the western allies should follow the Italian collapse with an invasion of the Balkans. A successful drive up the Balkan peninsula would force the Nazis to undertake the terribly dangerous feat of pulling back their entire front, assuming that Soviet pressure was maintained.

It's most unlikely that this could be achieved without corresponding withdrawals in western Europe. Hitler's position would be so precarious on the eastern front during his retreat that he wouldn't dare leave his forces scattered throughout the occupied areas of the west. Moreover, we are reminded of another circumstance by British Prime Minister Churchill who yesterday told a cheering house of commons:

"The spirit of revolt rises high in all subjugated lands. German rule is maintained from the north cape of Norway to the island of Crete only by hideous and ruthless cruelty, reprisals and massacres."

Oppressed Await Signal
The Greeks, the Yugoslavs, the Czechoslovakians, the Poles, the French, the Belgians, the Dutch, the Norwegians—all these tortured folk are merely waiting for the signal to throw themselves on their oppressors. Indeed, Yugoslav guerrilla forces never have ceased to wage bitter war on the invaders, and the ferocity of these attacks has increased with the weakening of Italy.

The idea of Hitler withdrawing to a restricted area for final defense isn't new. Military observers long have foreseen its inevitability when the Germans got hard pressed. The Fuehrer, perhaps on the insistence of his high command, has had his final defenses prepared.

On the western front, Hitler is said to have had the two vast and "invulnerable" fortified lines with which the war started—the French Maginot and the German Westwall—prepared for the defense of the fatherland. Many other strategic strong points have been got ready for the show-down.

3 SOLDIERS DIE IN SW. DESERT

Camp Young, Calif.—(P)—Death in the searing heat of a desolate waterless expanse followed a platoon of soldiers that became lost during a six-day endurance maneuver on the vast, trackless wastelands of the Southern California-Arizona desert.

Remainder Rescued
Two were listed as dead and a third as missing and presumed by the army to be dead, in a report last night from military authorities which also disclosed the remainder of the platoon had been rescued.

The two died of thirst, army officials stated. Their names were withheld pending notification of relatives. Some of those rescued, the report said, were severely affected by sun, exhaustion and lack of water, but were expected to recover from their trek across the sandy wilderness, where temperatures Sunday and Monday soared to the highest points in several years.

Thermometers at Imperial, Calif., recorded 124 degrees Sunday and 116 Monday.

Soldiers Become Lost
The contingent of soldiers became lost from its supply depot Saturday in the remote Ogilby area. Their problem was a six-day test of hardihood, under desert combat conditions.

A Camp Young officer said initial reports indicated the platoon ran out of water Saturday and its lieutenant in command set out for a fresh supply. During his absence the three men, apparently believing him lost, strayed from the rest of the unit to search for water, the Camp Young officer stated. However, the lieutenant had water when he returned.

Six soldiers, exhausted, reached a Southern Pacific way station, where they flagged a train that took them to Yuma, Ariz., Sheriff T. H. Newman disclosed. Bodies of the dead likewise were sent to Yuma, the army reported, where a military board of inquiry convened.

OUR MEN IN SERVICE

Word was received by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Richards that their son, Leland, has won his rating of pharmacist's mate third class. Mrs. Leland Richards is visiting her husband at Glenwood Springs, Col., where he is attached to a naval convalescence hospital staff.

Flying nephews of Mrs. Georgiana Buckley, 840 First street north, who will receive their wings at graduation exercises July 28 at the army advance flying school, Yuma, Ariz., are David Arpin Brennan, and Donald J. Arpin, formerly of this city.

Reunion in Australia
A joyous reunion in Australia—that was the experience of Pvt. Louis Dillinger of Marshfield and his brother, Staff Sgt. Peter of Madison, sons of Thomas Dillinger sr., city.

Pvt. Louis Dillinger found his brother, a former Madison National Guardsman, at a station near his camp. Both men belong to the same infantry division. It was their first meeting since January, 1942. Two other Dillinger brothers are also in the armed forces, Pvt. Anton, twin brother of Staff Sgt. Peter, at Camp Claiborne, La., and Staff Sgt. Joseph, stationed at Camp White, Ore.

At School for Cooks
Pfc. Gilbert C. Hanemann has returned to Fort Bragg, N. C. where he is studying to become a mess sergeant at a school for bakers and cooks. Another brother, Fred, is somewhere in Texas on maneuvers. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hanemann, Route 5.

The navy announces that three young men from this city and vicinity have successfully completed their 16-weeks courses of study at the naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill. on July 26, and are now awaiting assignment to the fleet or shore stations. Walter L. Wood, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wood, 921 Washington street, was made a yeoman third class; Harry R. Allworden, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Allworden, Route 3, was rated a gunner's mate; and Kenneth L. Schulz, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schulz, 340 Alexander avenue, Port Edwards, was also rated a gunner's mate.

Judge Won't Uphold New Tavern Law

Sheboygan, Wis.—(P)—Municipal Judge E. H. Pühr yesterday held unconstitutional the recently enacted Wisconsin law closing all taverns except in Milwaukee county at 1 a. m. and dismissed charges against three tavern operators charged with violating the law.

Judge Pühr termed the law "arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious" and cited the statute covering Milwaukee county in which taverns may be kept open until 2 a. m. on week days and 3:30 a. m. on Sundays.

Dist. Attorney James J. Kerwin of Milwaukee county, said the law was based on a principle of population zoning which, he said, the supreme court has upheld. The law makes the legislation applicable to any county of more than 600,000. Kerwin said, Milwaukee county is the only one in the state with that population.

A. P. Writer Describes Regimentation of Italy Under Mussolini's Rule

(Editor's Note: The regimentation of Italy under Mussolini's dictatorship is described by Richard G. Massock, chief of the former Associated Press bureau in Rome, in this third of four daily stories detailing the rise and fall of "The Great Chief.")

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK
Washington—(P)—While thousands cheered and others groaned, Mussolini devoted himself for 10 years to dusting off Rome's former glory, shaking a semblance of efficiency into Italian life and promoting his personal power.

The first 10 years of his absolute dictatorship, 1925 to 1935, were relatively peaceful for the Italians who conformed to Fascism.

Domestic Program
Mussolini was busy with a program of domestic reforms to justify his dictatorship and building the Fascist state to perpetuate it.

Italy was made safe and orderly, the tourists found. She was given a social and economic program that appeared promising.

For a decade, Italian national life showed to the casual observer an outward health and vigor it never before had enjoyed.

But the cost to the Italians was great indeed, for they lost two freedoms—freedom of speech and freedom from fear. They failed to gain another—freedom from want.

Mussolini became the state.

Imposed Social Peace
He imposed social peace by outlawing strikes and lockouts. He expanded the railways and public works, the merchant marine, the highway system, the aqueducts and power plants.

He reclaimed thousands of acres, especially in the Pontine marshes near Rome, to make new fields for the growing of crops.

He gave the workers a labor charter, social insurance, summer camps for children. He provided schools for all.

Mussolini set up a super-regimented form of economic nationalism in a so-called corporative system, with employers' guilds, called corporations, and syndicates of workers, all under his state control through the Fascist party.

Fascists Control Everything
The worker had to belong to a Fascist syndicate to work. The employers had to accept a party control which reached into every phase of their industrial and commercial operations.

This government control, exercised through instruments of a single party, spawned a host of grafters, large and small.

Mussolini legalized his personal army, the Fascist militia—first such institution in the history of Europe, later the model for the Nazi brownshirts in Germany.

Target of Assassins
Mussolini was repeatedly the target of assassins.

In 1925 a General Zaniboni was convicted of setting up a rifle in a window from which he could fire on the duce when Mussolini appeared on his balcony to address a crowd.

In 1926 an Irish woman fired a pistol at Mussolini during a ceremony in Rome, the bullet scratching his nose. A shot was fired at him from a crowd of cheering blackshirts as they pressed around his open car in Bologna. An anarchist threw a bomb against Mussolini's car.

There were other abortive attempts, not always publicized, against his life.

Police repression of the people was tightened.

Press Is Censored
Government censorship of the press reduced the newspapers to servile collaboration with the regime, until the Fascist party eventually controlled all the organs of opinion.

Mussolini regimented and disciplined the people until almost everybody was in some sort of uniform.

Boys were drilled in Fascist corps for the army service into which they were graduated.

Girls Drilled For Motherhood
The girls were put into uniforms, too, but they were drilled for motherhood, for Mussolini used all the persuasion of his dictatorial position and cash prizes as well for the propagation of offspring to make good his boast of eight million bayonets against any foe.

Mussolini gloried in the adulation of those about him. He affected uniforms that flattered his short, dumpy body. With bulging eyes and jutting chin, he shouted flamboyant phrases at a corralled audience from the balcony of his palace.

But to be a Caesar, Mussolini had to pay the penalty of loneliness. Nobody ever has claimed to have been a dear and affectionate friend of the duce. Mussolini never

SOME Simple rules for Home Canning

- ★ Can fruits and vegetables as soon as possible after they are gathered. "Two hours from garden to can" is an excellent rule to follow.
- ★ Acid containing foods such as fruits, tomatoes, pickled beets, ripe pimientos and rhubarb may be successfully canned at or near the temperature of boiling water (212 degrees). Either boiling water bath or open kettle method will prove satisfactory.
- ★ Non-acid vegetables (peas, beans, corn, etc.) and meats must be canned in a steam pressure cooker. With this device it is possible to obtain the 240 to 250 degree temperature required.
- ★ Do not use baking soda or canning powders. Some of these tend to destroy the vitamin content of the foods. Process by heat only.
- ★ Glass jars are recommended. Half pint jars only should be used for jams and preserves. Pint and quart jars only should be used for non-acid foods. Half-gallon jars may be used for acid fruits, tomatoes and pickles.
- ★ Jar caps must be in perfect condition. Do not use them if they show dents, cracks, or chips or if they have loose linings.
- ★ Rubber or composition rings must be new and of fresh material to assure perfect sealing.
- ★ For detailed canning instructions call at our display floor. These instructions will tell you exactly what to do.

Plan to Present Symphony Concerts in Smaller Towns

New York—(P)—A plan to present small town concerts by the country's leading symphony has been announced by James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL).

Petrillo said yesterday that the union had authorized expenditure of $250,000—and double that "if it is found necessary"—to send big city orchestras to small towns to present free concerts.

The plan, he said, was first suggested to him at a White House meeting last Dec. 29 by President Roosevelt who, Petrillo added, "was very much concerned that the people in the smaller cities were not getting enough first class concert music, especially during wartime."

The AFM president said the plan would be completed "within the next seven or eight days." He said that he has not yet discussed it with the various orchestra managements.

All expenses would be paid by the AFM, said Petrillo who estimated that 570 concerts could be staged if the entire $500,000 is spent.

Petrillo said symphony orchestras from 17 major cities would participate in the program and that orchestras from smaller cities, including Racine, Wis., and Duluth, Minn., also were expected to take part.
