

DAILY RADIO PROGRAMS WEHA

1340 Kilocycles TONIGHT'S HIGHLIGHTS 6:00-6:15 - Fulton Lewis, Jr. (MBS) 6:15-6:25 - Sports Parade. 6:25-6:30 - Sports Spotlight. 6:30-7:00 - Week-End Special. 7:00-7:15 - Sam Balter (MBS). 7:15-7:30 - George Hamilton (MBS). 7:30-7:55 - Adventures of Sherlock Holmes (MBS). 7:55-8:00 - Don Dumphy's Sports Quips (MBS). 8:00-8:15 - Gabriel Heatter (MBS). 8:15-8:30 - Carl Ravazza (MBS). 8:30-9:00 - "Double or Nothing" (MBS). 9:00-9:05 - News. 9:05-9:15 - Dance Music. 9:15-9:30 - Sunny Skylar (MBS). 9:30-9:45 - Dance Music. 9:45-10:00 - Eddy Howard (MBS). 10:00-10:15 - News. 10:15-10:30 - Henry Jerome (MBS).

TONIGHT'S HIGHLIGHTS 7:00-7:15 - Marching Along Together. 7:15-7:30 - News. 7:30-8:00 - Early Birds. 8:00-8:05 - A. P. News. 8:05-9:00 - Late Risers' Club. 9:00-9:05 - A. P. News. 9:05-9:15 - Harry Bluestone. 9:15-9:30 - Morning Melodies. 9:30-10:00 - Marshfield Hour. 10:00-11:00 - Children's Bible Hour (WN).

11:00-11:05 - Town Crier. 11:05-11:15 - Musical Interlude. 11:15-11:30 - Morning Devotional. 11:30-11:55 - Sack Hawkins Club. 11:55-12:00 - Thorp Auction Time (WN).

12:00-12:05 - Markets (WN). 12:05-12:15 - Spike Jones. 12:15-12:30 - News. 12:30-1:00 - Texas Jim Lewis. 1:00-1:05 - News. 1:05-1:15 - Musical Interlude. 1:15-1:30 - Treasury Star Parade. 1:30-2:00 - Mutual Goes Calling (MBS). 2:00-2:15 - "The Black Castle" (MBS). 2:15-2:30 - Palmer House Orchestra (MBS). 2:30-3:00 - Horace Heidt (MBS). 3:00-3:15 - Horace Heidt (MBS). 3:30-4:00 - Brazilian Parade (MBS). 4:00-5:00 - Navy Bulletin Board (MBS). 5:00-5:01 - Prayer (MBS). 5:01-5:15 - I Hear America Singing (MBS). 5:15-5:30 - William Ewing (MBS). 5:30-6:00 - Parade of Bands. 6:00-6:15 - News. 6:15-6:25 - Sports Parade. 6:25-6:30 - Sports Spotlight. 6:30-6:45 - Dinner Dance. 6:45-7:00 - "Confidentially Yours" (MBS). 7:30 - California Melodies (MBS). 7:30-8:00 - Brain Barry - Foreign Assignment (MBS). 8:00-9:00 - Chicago Theater of the Air (MBS). 9:00-9:05 - News. 9:05-9:15 - Dance Music. 9:15-9:45 - Saturday Night Bonwagon (MBS). 9:45-10:00 - Henry Jerome (MBS). 10:00-10:15 - News. 10:15-10:30 - Dick Kuhn (MBS).

SUNDAY'S HIGHLIGHTS. 8:00-8:15 - News. 8:15-9:00 - Symphony in Swing. 9:00-9:30 - Detroit Bible Class (MBS). 9:30-10:00 - Symphony in Swing. 10:00-10:30 - Wesley Radio League (MBS). 10:30-11:00 - Sunday Melodies. 11:00-11:30 - Reviewing Stand (MBS). 11:30-12:15 - Stevens Point Hour. 12:15-12:30 - News. 12:30-1:00 - Lutheran Hour (MBS). 1:00-2:00 - Stevens Point Hour. 2:00-2:30 - Calvary Baptist Gospel Hour. 2:30-2:45 - Marshfield Hour. 2:45-3:00 - American Dairy Association (WN). 3:00-3:30 - Marshfield Hour. 3:30-4:00 - Young People's Church of the Air (MBS).

SUNDAY NEWS BROADCASTS ON WFHR. 8 A. M., 12:15 P. M., 4:15 P. M., 7:45 P. M., 9:30 P. M., and 10 P. M. Important bulletins released upon receipt.

4:00-4:15 - William T. Ewyue. 4:15-4:30 - Matinee Dance. 4:30-5:00 - Bulldog Drummond (MBS). 5:00-5:30 - Murder Clinic (MBS). 5:30-6:00 - Consolidated Hour. 6:00-6:30 - Voice of Prophecy (MBS). 6:30-6:45 - Dinner Dance. 6:45-7:00 - "Fime and Tide." 7:00-7:45 - A. L. Alexander's Mediation Board (MBS). 7:45-8:00 - Gabriel Heatter (MBS). 8:00-9:00 - Old Fashioned Revival Hour (MBS). 9:00-9:30 - Boys Town. 9:30-9:45 - John Stanley - News (MBS). 9:45-10:00 - "Bobby Hookey" (MBS). 10:00-10:05 - News. 10:05-10:30 - Henry Jerome (MBS). (All programs subject to change without notice).

NETWORK PROGRAMS. FRIDAY. 7:00 p. m. Lucille Manners, NBC. 7:30 p. m. Dramatic Series, CBS. 8:00 p. m. Thin Man, CBS. 8:30 p. m. Sherlock Holmes, MBS. 9:00 p. m. Waltz Time, NBC. 9:30 p. m. Gang Busters, Blue Network.

GRINNING SON OF HEAVEN RESCUED—A U. S. sub which sank his ship stands by to pick up this grinning Jap from the Pacific. He is kneeling on an overturned lifeboat. (Associated Press photo from navy.)

Emanuele Isn't Likely to Remain as Italy's King When the War Ends

BY DE WITT MAC KENZIE Old Marshal Badoglio is attempting some mighty juggling with the throne of Italy in his efforts to divert at one and the same time the attention of the allies, who demand unconditional surrender forthwith, and the Germans, who are said to threaten reprisals if he throws up the sponge.

The Italian public wants peace. Fiery demonstrations in many sections of the country show that the people are in that frame of mind which does no good for anyone who stands between them and the return to normal for which they so long have yearned.

Emanuele to Blame Now it was King Vittorio Emanuele who, willingly or otherwise, named Badoglio chief of state, with dictatorial powers, when Mussolini collapsed the other day. That inevitably must link the little monarch in the minds of his subjects with all the fresh misfortune which may come their way because of the marshal's failure to accept the allied terms, thus inviting bombing and invasion.

Badoglio may see the writing on the wall and surrender. If he persists in playing the Hitlerian games, however, and so condemns his unfortunate country to the horrors of further war, he may precipitate an ultimate political change with far reaching consequences.

Badoglio Won't Halt Allies Badoglio or no Badoglio, the allies are going to take over Italy. Then in due course the people of the country will be permitted to choose the form of government under which they wish to live—so long as it isn't Fascist or Nazi. The United Nations have promised this to the axis countries.

Will the people want to retain a king who contributed to their suffering? Will they even want to keep the monarchy?

Only time can answer those momentous questions. However, we are bound to note that during the recent days of crisis political elements in various parts of the country have been demonstrating in favor of other forms of government.

Emanuele fell in public esteem after Mussolini came to power. Since the war, however, he has seemed to come into his own again, as the duce lost favor with a disillusioned populace. Italians were looking to their king for leadership. Passed Up Great Chance

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

OUR MEN IN SERVICE

Aviation Cadet Gordon Tempas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tempas, Vesper, has been transferred from Shreveport, La., to an army flying school in San Antonio, Texas. Gordon has been in the service since last February.

Lt. Ralph Gjertsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gjertsen, 950 Baker street, is a navigator stationed in Dyersburg, Tenn. where he expects to be for another month. Another, son, John Jr., stationed somewhere in North Africa, has been promoted to the grade of private first class, according to word received by his parents. He has been in the service since early last May.

Three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Linzmeier, Route 2, Milladore, are serving in army uniforms—Cpl. Richard L. Linzmeier, technician fifth class and Pfc. Charles J. Linzmeier, who have both arrived safely in North Africa, and Pvt. Silverius J. Linzmeier, who is stationed at Moore field, Mission, Texas.

Cpl. Neal Murgatroyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Murgatroyd of Port Edwards, who has been stationed at the Newcastle army air base in Wilmington, Del. for the past year, has been transferred to St. Anselm's college at Manchester, N. H., where he will be located for five months while taking the aviation cadet training course.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grover, Nekoska, have received announcement that their son, Harvey Grover, has been graduated from the army air force navigation school at San Marcos, Texas, and is now a second lieutenant. Lt. Grover hopes to be home soon to visit his wife and parents.

In a letter to The Tribune, William McClyman, Nekoska, reveals that he has recently been promoted to the grade of sergeant, from the grade of private first class. Sgt. McClyman is first cook and pastry baker stationed at Maxwell field, Ala., where he has been for nearly 10 months. He has just completed a two months course in basic training school and now has started a three weeks course in first aid.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Henricks, Nekoska, have received word that their son, John D. Henricks, who is stationed at the army post center at Great Bend, Kas., has been promoted to the grade of corporal. He has been in the army since January of last year.

Captain William H. Haight Jr., Cambridge, Wis., who was a reporter on the staff of The Tribune a number of years ago, has been awarded the Legion of Merit medal for "exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service" during the occupation and setting up of the U. S. army base in Iceland. Haight was intelligence officer on the island. The award was announced yesterday in an Associated Press dispatch from London.

RATION CALENDAR. IMPORTANT DATES. August 7—Blue N, P and Q stamps in Ration Book 2 expire at midnight. August 8—Red stamp V becomes valid. August 15—SUGAR stamp 13 in Ration Book 1 expires at midnight. August 15—Red stamp W becomes valid. August 16—SUGAR stamp No. 14 becomes valid. August 31—Third TIRE INSPECTION for C and bulk book holders must be completed. (Inspection for commercial vehicle tires required every 5,000 miles or six months, whichever occurs first.) August 31—Red stamps T, U, V and W expire at midnight. Sept. 7—Blue stamps R, S, and T in Ration Book 2 expire at midnight. Sept. 20—Blue stamps R, S and T expire. Sept. 21—Gasoline coupon No. 7 in new A book expires. Sept. 30—FUEL OIL coupon 5 of 1942-43 season expires. Sept. 30—Second TIRE INSPECTION for holders of A gasoline book must be completed by this date. Oct. 31—SHOE coupon 18 expires at midnight. Oct. 31—CANNING SUGAR stamps 15 and 16 in Book 1 expire at midnight.

the C.B.S. club held at the Poul Wellnitz home Sunday evening at Arpin.

DIRECT HIT ON RUMANIAN REFINERY — Bombs from U. S. Liberators score a direct hit on the Steava Romana oil refinery at Campina, Rumania during the Aug. 1 raid on the oil fields which are the axis' major source of supply. Note huge oil fire burning at left center. (Associated Press photo from USAAF via OWI from Cairo.)

Transport Planes Are Helping to Win War Against Japs in China

Fourteenth U. S. Airforce Headquarters, China, July 26—(Delayed)—(P)—Three twin-engined planes are circling in the blue haze overhead, awaiting their okays from the radio tower to land.

Lieut. Arthur D. (Red) Karp, 25, of New York City, a heavy bomber pilot who has tangled with the Japanese many times, says: "Those guys are sure helping to win the war out here."

I look closely at the planes and reply: "But, Red, those are only transport planes." "Exactly," Red says. "We combat crewmen get lots of headlines in the states, but don't forget those guys. They're doing their part, too."

Wisconsin Boy There "Those guys" included Lieut. Wilmer F. Gartman, of Fish Creek, Wis.

I went to the transport alert shack where I meet handsome Capt. Al Nowak, 27, of Chicago, a five-foot, 160-pounder who is in charge of transport operations. After attending Kenyon college for three years, Nowak tells me, he spent two years in the grain business with his father. Al joined the air corps in 1938, then flew the Atlanta-Chicago run for Eastern Airlines for two and one-half years. He rejoined the air corps and came to this theater in May, 1942. He has been flying transports in China ever since.

A modest chap, Nowak says: "I just do our chores and don't deserve any special mention for doing our job."

"But Red Karp tells me differently," I reply. "Just what do you do?"

Cover Thousands of Miles Nowak says the transport pilots fly approximately six times as much as the combat pilots and carry all kinds of supplies.

"Our planes cover thousands of miles of territory," Nowak explained.

The transports bear the insignia, "Flying Coolies"—three Chinese Gremilins lugging a heavy suitcase. The insignia typifies what the transports do—carry whatever the Americans need, wherever they are.

The transport pilots fly the world's most rugged territory—breath-takingly beautiful when seen from the air, but extremely hazardous on foggy days.

Capt. Arthur E. Waite of Detroit, Mich., who also flew fighter planes before joining the transports, said: "We flew only in good weather in pursuit, but in transport we fly whenever we can get off the ground, which is usually always."

EMPLOYMENT ZOOMS There were more persons employed in the United States in May, 1943, than the entire population of the nation numbered in 1850.

One-man life rafts are built into parachute packs worn by Navy aircraft personnel.

For oblique "record" photographs, Navy photographers use the F-56 camera which has a 20-inch lens electrically heated.

SAYS JUVENILE DELINQUENCY IS OVERPLAYED

Madison, Wis.—(P)—Municipal Judge Elmer D. Goodland, of Racine, declared yesterday he could not subscribe, at least as far as Wisconsin is concerned, to the views of officials who hold that juvenile delinquency is increasing at an "astronomical" rate.

Gives Concluding Address In the concluding address at the "teen-age problems" conference, sponsored by the child welfare division of the state department of public welfare, Judge Goodland, nephew of Governor Goodland, said: "I don't know who is responsible for the build-up and hysteria about juvenile delinquency. All the statistics I could gather do not support the astronomical figures I have seen on juvenile delinquency."

Many people, he said, are too ready to see signs of delinquency in young, unmarried people.

"A few weeks ago I saw a group of married people come out of a place holding hands, having fun and just carrying on," he said. "Because they were married no one made anything of it. But just let a group of youngsters do that. We cannot expect children to conduct themselves on a plane higher than their elders."

Quoting figures showing there were 10,000 drunk and disorderly cases in Milwaukee last year, as against 7,000 the previous year, he said:

Cases Involve Adults "These were cases involving adults, but do we hear much about this increase?"

He said children were exposed continually to sex on the radio and in the movies and magazines.

Prof. L. V. Ballard, of Beloit college, said it was the responsibility of localities to provide adequate and suitable child welfare agencies, to coordinate their activities, and deal effectively with anti-social forces in the community.

John Kenney of Milwaukee, chief juvenile probation officer, and other speakers discussed newly enacted curfew laws, but said these had not been in effect long enough for an accurate appraisal.

Attorney Defends Himself Against Misleading Claim

Milwaukee —(P)— Attorney Jerome Treis, testifying in his own behalf in disbarment proceedings against him, denied yesterday that he was responsible for misleading the Marathon county circuit court in connection with a suit by the Employers' Mutual Insurance company, of Wausau.

Treis testified before Referee John P. McGalloway, Fond du Lac. He faces two charges, one in connection with the Employers Mutual suit against the P. and D. General Contractors, Inc., a former Milwaukee construction firm, and the other that he perverted and abused lawful processes of Milwaukee courts in collection cases.

Treis said he was called to the P. and D. office May 8, 1939, and Lawrence Doligalski, company secretary told him that the company had been ordered to produce additional records in the suit brought by Employers' Mutual.

Doligalski and Mrs. Myra Czajkowski, the bookkeeper, told him that they had shown the company records to the insurance company auditors, he said. He then prepared affidavits and they read them and signed them.

It was not until after the court case at Wausau that he learned the P. and D. company had kept two sets of books and that Mrs. Czajkowski and Doligalski "were not telling the truth" when they said they had produced all records, he testified.

Three tons of steel are used in making one of our heavy bombers.

To Hold Institute On Adult Education

Madison, Wis. (P)— An institute on adult education will be held at the University of Wisconsin August 16-19 in cooperation with the state board of vocational and adult education, it was announced today.

Speakers include John Cudahy, director of the Wisconsin council of defense; Chester S. Williams, director of adult education, U. S. office of education, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Harold Snyder, coordinator of the field services section of the preindustrial training branch of the war department; and Paul H. Sheats, head of the adult education section, office of war information, Washington, D. C.

For oblique "record" photographs, Navy photographers use the F-56 camera which has a 20-inch lens electrically heated.

One-man life rafts are built into parachute packs worn by Navy aircraft personnel.

For oblique "record" photographs, Navy photographers use the F-56 camera which has a 20-inch lens electrically heated.

One-man life rafts are built into parachute packs worn by Navy aircraft personnel.

For oblique "record" photographs, Navy photographers use the F-56 camera which has a 20-inch lens electrically heated.

One-man life rafts are built into parachute packs worn by Navy aircraft personnel.

For oblique "record" photographs, Navy photographers use the F-56 camera which has a 20-inch lens electrically heated.

One-man life rafts are built into parachute packs worn by Navy aircraft personnel.

For oblique "record" photographs, Navy photographers use the F-56 camera which has a 20-inch lens electrically heated.

One-man life rafts are built into parachute packs worn by Navy aircraft personnel.

For oblique "record" photographs, Navy photographers use the F-56 camera which has a 20-inch lens electrically heated.

One-man life rafts are built into parachute packs worn by Navy aircraft personnel.

For oblique "record" photographs, Navy photographers use the F-56 camera which has a 20-inch lens electrically heated.

One-man life rafts are built into parachute packs worn by Navy aircraft personnel.

For oblique "record" photographs, Navy photographers use the F-56 camera which has a 20-inch lens electrically heated.

'SECRET WEAPON' POPS UP AGAIN

Madrid—(P)—That hardy perennial, Germany's "secret weapon," popped up again today.

This time the Berlin correspondent of the Spanish newspaper Arriba reveals the details of the terrible revenge that Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels is cooking up for the staggering blows being dealt to the axis by the allied military machine.

Tongue in cheek, the Arriba correspondent says news of the newest edition of the secret weapon came through the usual mysterious routes, which he described as "rumor or mixed with invention, desire, hope and inside information from unreliable, vague and unknown sources."

Tries to Restore Confidence From his story it appears Goebbels is making a frantic effort to restore German confidence at a time when allied bombings, the Mussolini-Badoglio incident and the Bolshevik blitzes have knocked down German morale to a new low.

This time, the dispatch to Arriba adds, a date for the scheduled introduction of the secret weapon has been added. It is November, 1943.

Next November, the Berlin reports say, the Reich will cease its passive resistance and let the world have it.

"Not a Bomb" This time "it" is not a bomb, not a radio-directed rocket and "has no possible comparison with gas."

But it's terrible and it's ready. All that is lacking, according to Berlin, is the "terrible order for the destruction and the most complete annihilation of the enemy."

The agony won't last long, the correspondent reported. It will be over for all of the enemies of the Reich by Christmas.

The correspondent concluded his dispatch with the remark that "Berlin is in the midst of a heat wave and the Germans eat their biggest meal at mid-day."

Sherry

Mrs. Robert Luecht spent Saturday with her sister Mrs. Fritz Tuxhorn at Rudolph.

Mrs. Vesta Thomas spent Friday and Saturday with her son Howard and family at Wisconsin Rapids. Saturday, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas they spent the weekend with Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Thomas and family at Waukesha.

Mrs. Harold Plummer, who has been employed at Madison, came Monday to visit with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thomas. Her husband Pfc. Harold Plummer has been transferred from Trux Madison to an air base in Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parks of Wisconsin Rapids and the Rev. and Mrs. Will Caldwell and family of Vinton, Iowa were Friday callers at the Will Hank home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Loomas and family of Wisconsin Rapids spent Thursday at the Will Joling home.

Evelyn Jagodzinski, who has spent the past 18 months at Alameda, Cal., where she is employed in an airplane factory, came Saturday to spend two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jagodzinski and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Marti, Mr. and Mrs. George Schroeder and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schroeder attended a meeting of

One Dead, 25 Ill From Food Poisoning

Eugene, Ore.—(P)— Food poisoning caused the death of one person and left 25 others in hospitals today.

Dr. C. L. Lindgren, county health officer, said 48 cases had been reported and that most of the persons taken to hospitals yesterday were dangerously ill.

The poisonings, Dr. Lindgren said, were believed to have been caused by cultures which developed in cream-based pies improperly refrigerated.

NO ASPIRIN

can do more for you, so why pay more? World's largest seller, 10¢, 36 tablets 20¢, 100 for only 35¢. Get St. Joseph Aspirin.

BASEBALL - AT - W