

Miss Kathlyn Henry Married In California

Wearing the uniform of the American Red Cross, Miss Kathlyn Marie Henry of Camp Crowder, Mo., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Henry, 430 Fifth street north, and Corp. Robert O'Brien of Camp Beale, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Brien of Chicago, Ill., repeated nuptial vows after the Rev. Father Guiligan at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Marysville, Calif., on Wednesday, July 26.

Hibiscus decorated the altar for the service at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at which Miss Elsie Risetto, a Red Cross nurse, and Harold J. Sperbeck, both of Marysville, were the attendants.

The bride received her early education at St. Peter and Paul parochial and Lincoln high school, later attending Mount Mary college in Milwaukee and the University of Wisconsin at Madison. She holds an administrative position with the American Red Cross in the military personnel division at Camp Crowder.

After a wedding trip to Palo Alto, Calif., Corporal O'Brien returned to Camp Beale. His bride has a month's leave, which she is spending at Marysville.

Try a wrap-around blouse dress on the days you have more house work than seems manageable and see how much more efficiently you get the work done! The new comfortable neck, the short puffed sleeves and the ease in effect of this lapped-over blouse dress makes one of the nicest about-the-house dresses you've ever had!

TO PATTERN SUBSCRIBERS: Because of the increasing amount of mail being handled by the postal service for these days, the shortage of it is now so great that you are unable to get a pattern sent as promptly as in the past. Therefore we have decided to mail the patterns in sealed envelopes.

Birthday Party—July 31st being Jennie Bennett's second birthday, her mother, Mrs. George Bennett invited nine children, their mothers and Mrs. Joe Gilbert of Nekosia in for the afternoon. The children were observed at their play by the mothers, who themselves enjoyed a few games of bingo. Blue place cards bearing white woolly lambs marked each place for the birthday lunch and a white lamb birthday cake made an interesting centerpiece for the table.

Mrs. Bennett had also decorated a cake for the Skilling sisters, seven-year-old Annette and one-year-old Sheila, whose birthdays fell on the same day. Gifts were opened after the lunch. The little guests were Bobby Frchette, Nancy Woodell, Bill Beuchl, Mary Nason, Charlotte Davis, Naomi Ingersoll of Adams, Annette and Sheila Skilling and David Arneson.

Double Birthday Party—Mrs. Harold Woodell was hostess at a double birthday celebration at her home on Friday evening for her father, George Winker of Nekosia and her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Woodell of Cranmoor. Five hundred were the pastime with prizes going to Byrl Winn and Melvin Bohner, the latter of Milwaukee. Individual birthday cakes were features of the late lunch following which the honored guests unwrapped their gifts.

Crew Provides Educational Fund for Nancy Beatrice Wood

As proof of the esteem held by shipmates for her husband, who was killed in action in the south Pacific on March 22, Mrs. Lester O. Wood has received from Lieut. Everett Wright, his former officer in charge, a letter containing a check for $1,010 to be set up as an educational fund for her daughter, two-year-old Nancy Beatrice.

Seaman Wood was employed here by the Consolidated Water Power and Paper company before being inducted into the navy in April, 1943. Since then Mrs. Wood and daughter have been with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Crandall Rogers at Coloma.

The full amount of the check, explained in the letter below, has already been invested in war bonds in an educational trust fund for the daughter.

"For some time it has been my intention to write to you following the unfortunate death of your husband, Lester Orvil Wood, S2c, but the matter has been delayed several times for one reason or another. I now have a dual purpose in writing and am very happy to enclose this check for $1,010, with the suggestion that it be held in an educational fund for your small daughter. Of three choices given to the men for disposition of profits accumulated in our ship's service and welfare funds, this one immediately met with sincere and unanimous favor.

"Upon receipt of the check, we want you to use your own pleasure in your decision as to where and how you establish the educational fund. Should you decide to invest all or part of it in Victory War Bonds for the daughter, I am sure the twofold purpose served would make the men very happy, and, at the same time, it would increase the total of the fund and likewise share in hastening the day when both service and civilian personnel may pursue their endeavors in a peaceful world.

"As indicated by the changed address, our unit has moved, and, in fact, many of our men are now in other phases of amphibious duty. However, upon receiving your reply acknowledging receipt of the check, I shall see that the contents of your letter are passed along to the other officers and as many of the men as possible.

"From the viewpoint of censorship regulations, I am sure it may now be safely stated that Lester is buried in a quiet, peaceful military cemetery on Guadalcanal. We gave him the best military funeral we could arrange and a picture of the native-style chapel is enclosed along with a snapshot of the body bearers (three of them were his tent-mates) at the chapel and the color guard at the grave. Three of us officers and about sixty men were able to attend the services.

"Should there be any additional questions you would like answered, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Krueger of Milwaukee and Mrs. Burzynski and daughter Gretchen of Watertown, Wis., are visiting this week at the Frank McGargle home.

Dahty wash cloth and night gowns are welcome gifts for a hospital patient. They should be washed and ironed before being presented so they can be put to immediate use.

Girl Scout Corner

Everything at camp is happening happily according to plans—all except the weather. This seems the time to remind future campers that even though it seems warm when you leave for camp, put an extra blanket in your bedding roll for those cold nights.

A week ago 33 Girl Scouts from five different troops camped together, and last week 38 girls from six troops enjoyed their camp experiences together.

One of the outstanding features of camp this season is the democratic form of camp government that is practiced. A girl cabin leader is chosen to represent her respective cabin. After swimming each day, these girls meet with staff members to do the program planning. It is a clearing house for complaints and suggestions. After supper the cabin leader discusses these same matters with the girls in her cabin. Preceded by a staff meeting, two or more cabins meet as a unit each morning to plan that day's program. The whole system revolves about the girl planning and girl governing.

The high-light of each week's camping is the party that everyone is a part of. Last week a Sacajawea Pow-Wow was staged. Using Indian costumes, furnished by Mrs. Etelle Farris, the girls met around the camp fire. In an impressive ceremony, each one was christened with an Indian name that was written in blood on birch bark. A week ago the party was a masquerade, in which each girl made her own mask. The entire theme was that of the land of make believe, one group having a style show depicting fashions from 1800 until the present. Another unit chose nursery rhymes and one used the Hawaiian theme. The candle lighting friendship ceremony around the camp fire is one the girls will long remember. Nine new trails have been laid during these processions.

Having mentioned fires so often today reminds us that the wood pile is shrinking rapidly. Any efforts to replenish it will be greatly appreciated.

The girls enjoyed the pictures of old Wisconsin Rapids that Tom Taylor came out to show them.

The Red Cross canteen is still assisting Mrs. Bever in the preparation of meals. Several treats were sent out to camp; Mrs. Link made two sunshine cakes; Mrs. E. Hein donated cookies and ice cream; Mrs. Hagen, potato chips and crackers; Mrs. G. Farris, cup cakes.

Judge and Mrs. Frank W. Calkins, Leo Neitzel, A. D. Hill, and the Rev. E. G. Kuechle were camp visitors. Miss Margaret Sonnenberg spent part of her vacation at camp, serving as camp nurse.

The national training session for leaders will open at camp Wednesday, August 23, with dinner at 6 p. m. Notification will be sent to each leader. Please respond immediately.
